

TIME

How China aims to take over Hollywood

By Hannah Beech

Actress
Fan Bingbing

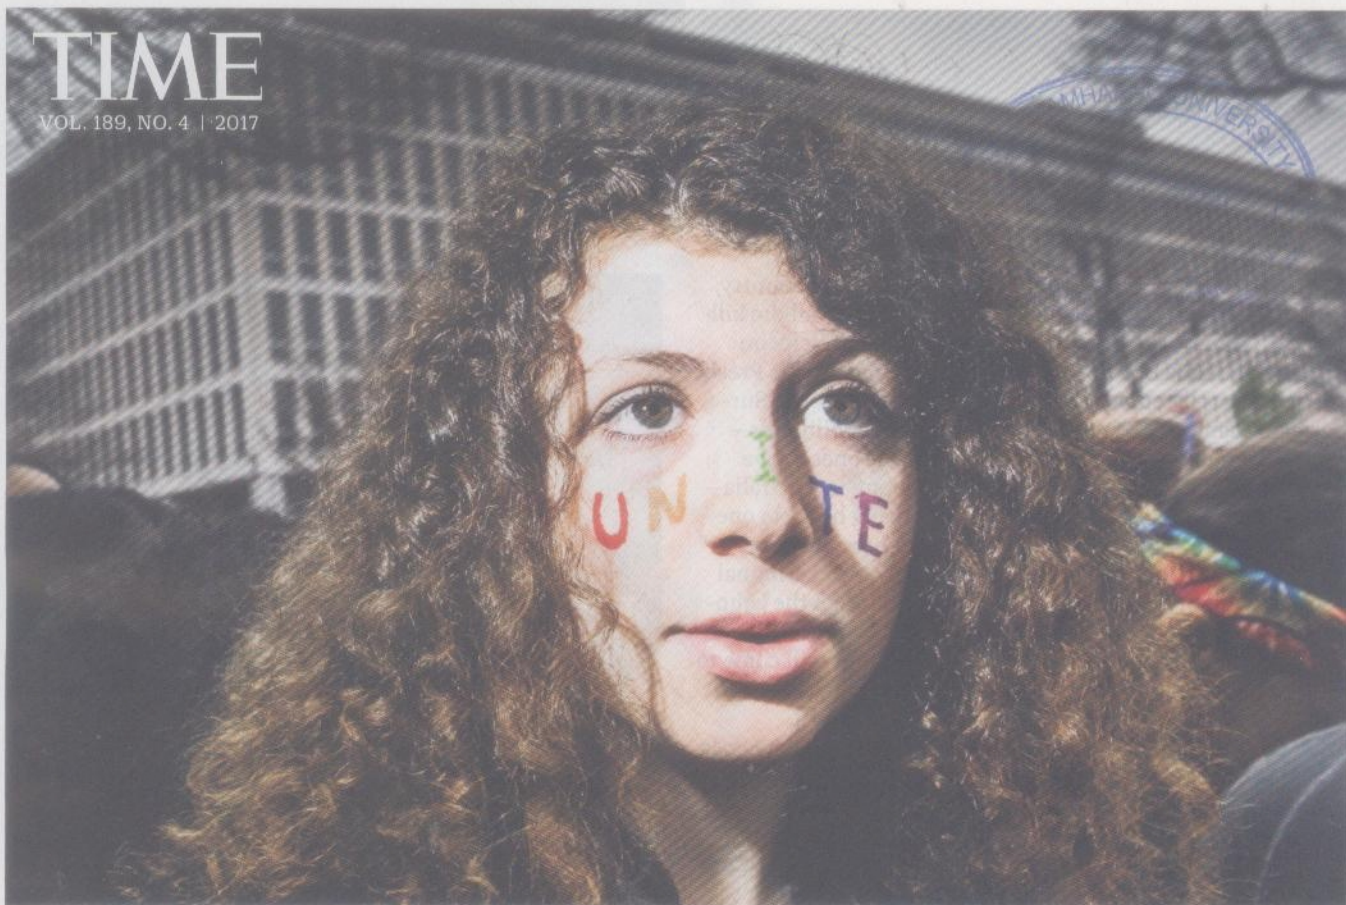

6

8

0

INDONESIA Rp 14,000
MALAYSIA RM 5.50
PHILIPPINES P 40.00
SINGAPORE S$ 7.00
THAILAND ฿ 40.00
US AND POSSESSIONS US$ 7.00

- 2 | Conversation
- 4 | For the Record

The Brief

News from the U.S. and around the world

- 5 | What President Trump has delivered so far
- 7 | Will Turkey give President Erdogan even more power?
- 8 | Ian Bremmer on Brexit
- 9 | RIP, Mary Tyler Moore
- 10 | Witness to Serbia's growing refugee crisis

The View

Ideas, opinion, innovations

- 12 | Joe Klein on Trump's governing ideology
- 13 | Not all wheat and whole-grain breads are what they claim to be, no matter how you slice it
- 14 | Why lawsuits are good for society
- 15 | Citi Bike's new laser lights make cyclists more visible to pedestrians in New York City

The Features

The Movement

Millions marched across the country and around the world to protest the Inauguration of Donald Trump. Where do they go from here? By Karl Vick 16

Rethinking Alzheimer's Prevention

Scientists zero in on health and lifestyle changes that can delay cognitive decline
By Mandy Oaklander 26

China's Hollywood

The Chinese film industry is booming—and it has global ambitions
By Hannah Beech 30

Time Off

What to watch, read, see and do

- 37 | The CW's Archie reboot
- 40 | Reviews: James Franco in I Am Michael; A Dog's Purpose
- 42 | Paul Auster's massive new novel
- 43 | Tom Brady's revenge
- 44 | Managing anxiety with meditation
- 47 | Joel Stein on getting his son to care about football
- 48 | 10 Questions for Trayvon Martin's parents

▲ A scene from the Women's March on Washington on Jan. 21, one day after Trump's Inauguration

Photograph by Dina Litovsky—Redux for TIME

ON THE COVER: Photograph by Liz Hingley—Vu for TIME